A Profile of the Texas Daily Newspaper Association

Founded in 1921 by 14 publishers, the Texas Daily Newspaper Association is now the collective voice of the state's daily newspapers. There are more than 80 dailies in Texas today with a combined 3 million in circulation, and TDNA members represent 98% of that circulation.

We provide a broad range of services for TDNA members—from protecting the legislative interests of the press and newspaper industry, to providing online support, producing conventions, interacting with Texas Universities and Colleges, administering numerous journalism awards and fielding day-today requests for legal and technical information.

Throughout its existence, TDNA has filled a major role in developing the newspaper industry in Texas. During the 1940s, TDNA helped build support for construction of the Southland Paper Mill in Lufkin—the first plant to produce newsprint from southern pine. During the 1950s, TDNA started a summer college student intern program and began conducting workshops/seminars for employees of TDNA-member papers on management, editorial, advertising and circulation topics.

In the early 1980s, TDNA won a legal battle against AT&T which prevented the legal monopoly from providing information services over its lines in Austin at an unfair advantage over newspapers and other news media that might want to enter the telecommunications field. During the 70th Legislature, TDNA was successful in its effort to repeal the tax on newspaper circulation that was enacted in 1984. Actual termination of the tax became effective October 1, 1987.

TDNA began the 1990s by coordinating development of a voluntary newsprint recycling plan that resulted in the state's 1991 Omnibus Recycling Act. Throughout its history, the association has played a major role in protecting the right of the media to report the news, including filing legal briefs and entering lawsuits on behalf of freedom of information and other First Amendment-related issues.

As issues in the Texas Legislature have grown more complex during the last 10 years, TDNA has had a daily presence at the State Capitol during regular and special sessions. A legislative partnership with the Texas Press Association to present a united front for the newspaper industry has resulted in successful efforts to protect the public's right to know by preserving public notice, warding off efforts to weaken open meetings and open records laws, and assuring the industry is not targeted on tax issues.

Heading into the 21st Century, TDNA has begun to focus on electronic technology and advances in online advertising as we continually strive to meet the changing needs of our membership base.

AbitibiBowater

Abitibi-Consolidated, Inc. and Bowater Incorporated, two leaders in the forest products industry, have joined forces to become AbitibiBowater: a stronger, more globally competitive business.

AbitibiBowater is the largest producer of newsprint in the world, with annual capacity estimated at 5.9 million metric tons. We supply leading publishers in more than 80 countries with top-quality newsprint—including varieties made of up to 100% recycled fiber. In addition to newspapers, our newsprint is an important component of a wide range of other applications including advertising inserts, flyers, brochures, circulars, telephone and other directories, and commercial guides. One-third of our total newsprint production is sold to markets outside North America.

The Daily Texan-Texas Student Media

The Daily Texan is recognized as the largest student newspaper in the nation and one that has produced more Pulitzer Prize winners than any other student newspaper. The winner annually of awards in state, regional and national contests, The Texan enjoys its relationships with other newspapers in the state, region and nation in developing internships and job placements.

The Texan is published by Texas Student Media, which also produces the Cactus Yearbook, Freshman Directory, Texas Travesty humor magazine, and the campus telephone directory. TSM operates student-run television and radio stations, as well as internet services for student media and advertisers. TSM offers printing services on its five-unit web press for other educational entities and state agencies.

Students in the nationally accredited School of Journalism choose from four areas: print, broadcast news, multi-media and photojournalism. In each area, students pursue a mix of theory and professional courses. They do their work in one of the nation's best-equipped facilities. All students learn to write and edit stories electronically, using modern computer techniques. Many journalism students also work on The Daily Texan, recognized as one of the top student newspapers in the nation. Graduates of the department have an excellent employment record nationally.

The University of Texas at Tyler was created in 1971 and became a component of The University of Texas System in 1979. Originally established as an upper-level university, UT Tyler's mission was expanded in 1997 by the Texas Legislature authorizing it to offer classes for first year and sophomore students. The journalism program draws many of its journalism students from nine junior colleges within a 50-mile radius of Tyler. The program serves approximately 65 journalism majors and offers the BA and BS undergraduate degrees in journalism and participates in a graduate degree program offering the MA in Communication. Journalism internships are an important part of the student's program of study.
