

Mike Medeiros

Assistant Professor
Universiteit van Amsterdam

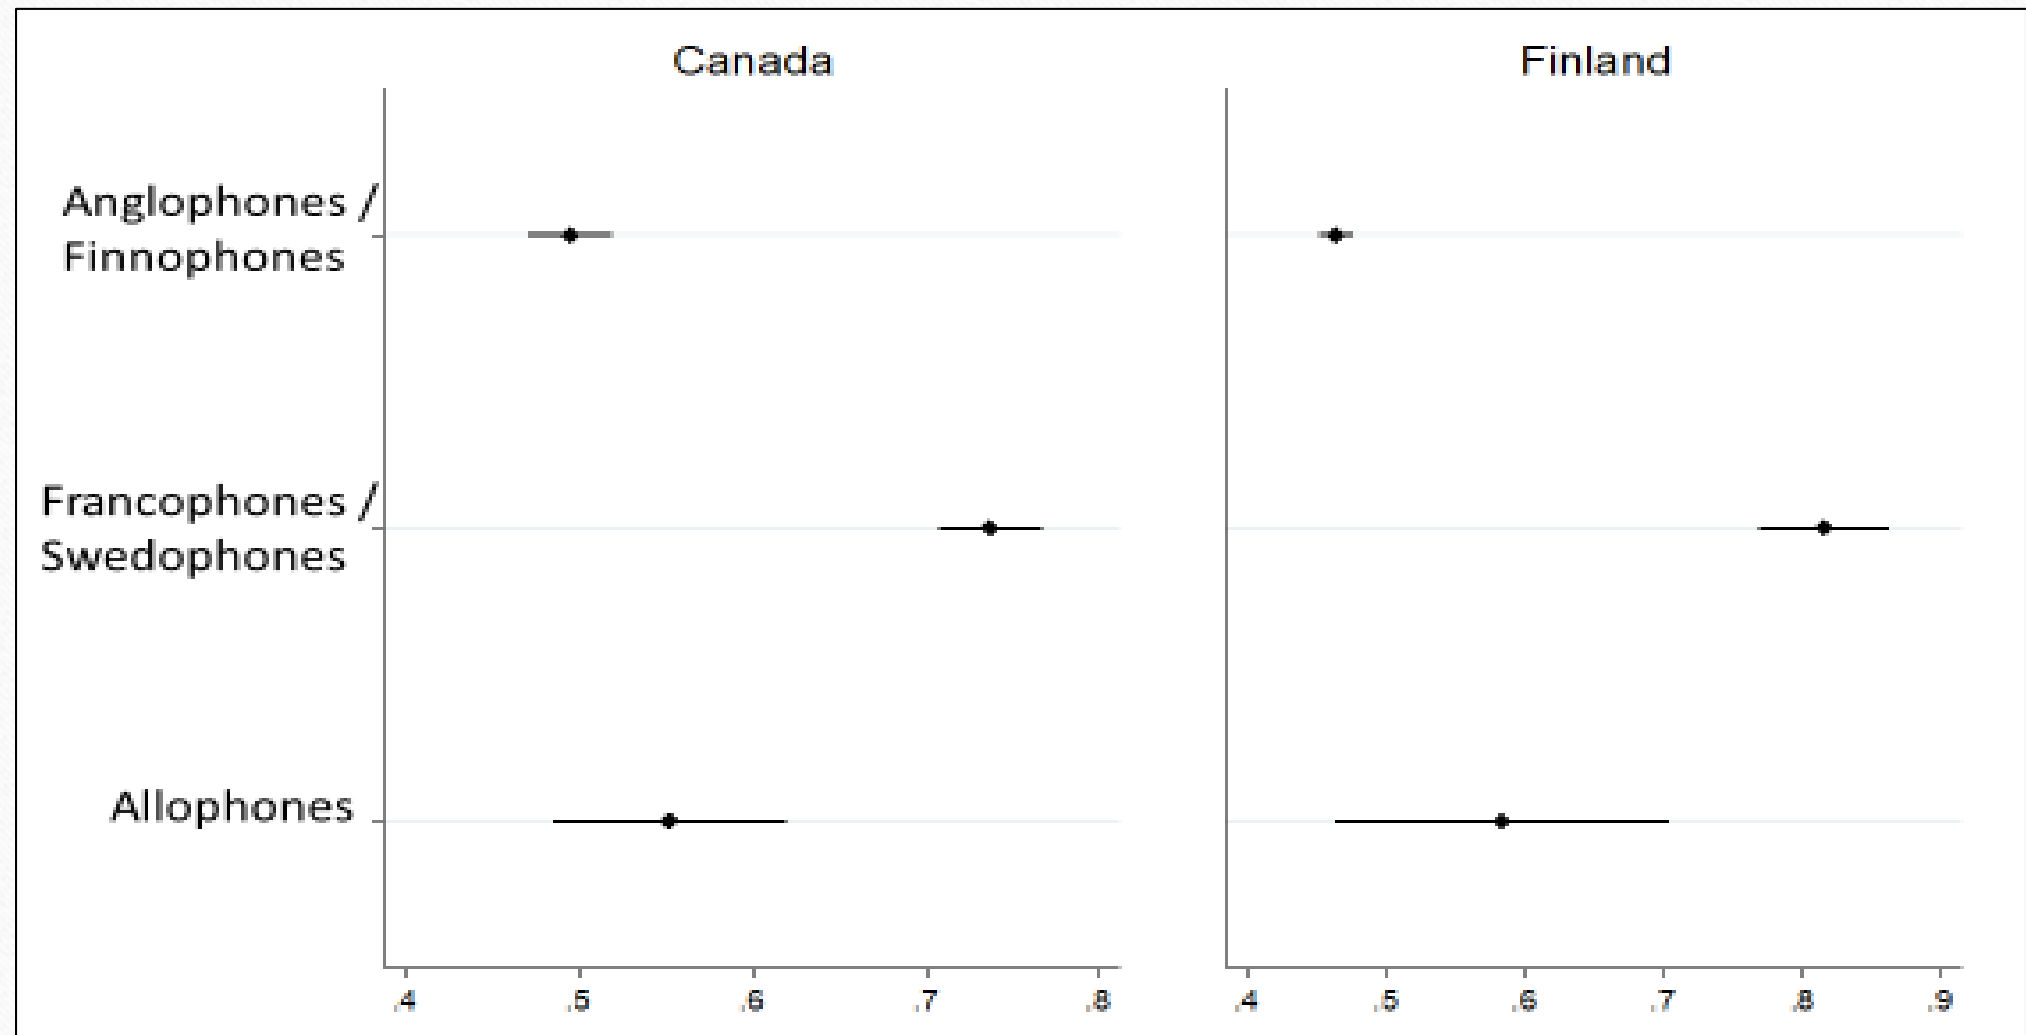

Research Themes

- Attitudes
 - Concepts from political (social) psychology
 - Behavioral approach
 - Issue with data availability
- Focus on Western countries, specifically the Canadian case.
- Lines of research:
 - Intergroup tensions
 - Policy

Findings of Interest

What factors determine support for bilingualism?

- Canada and Finland

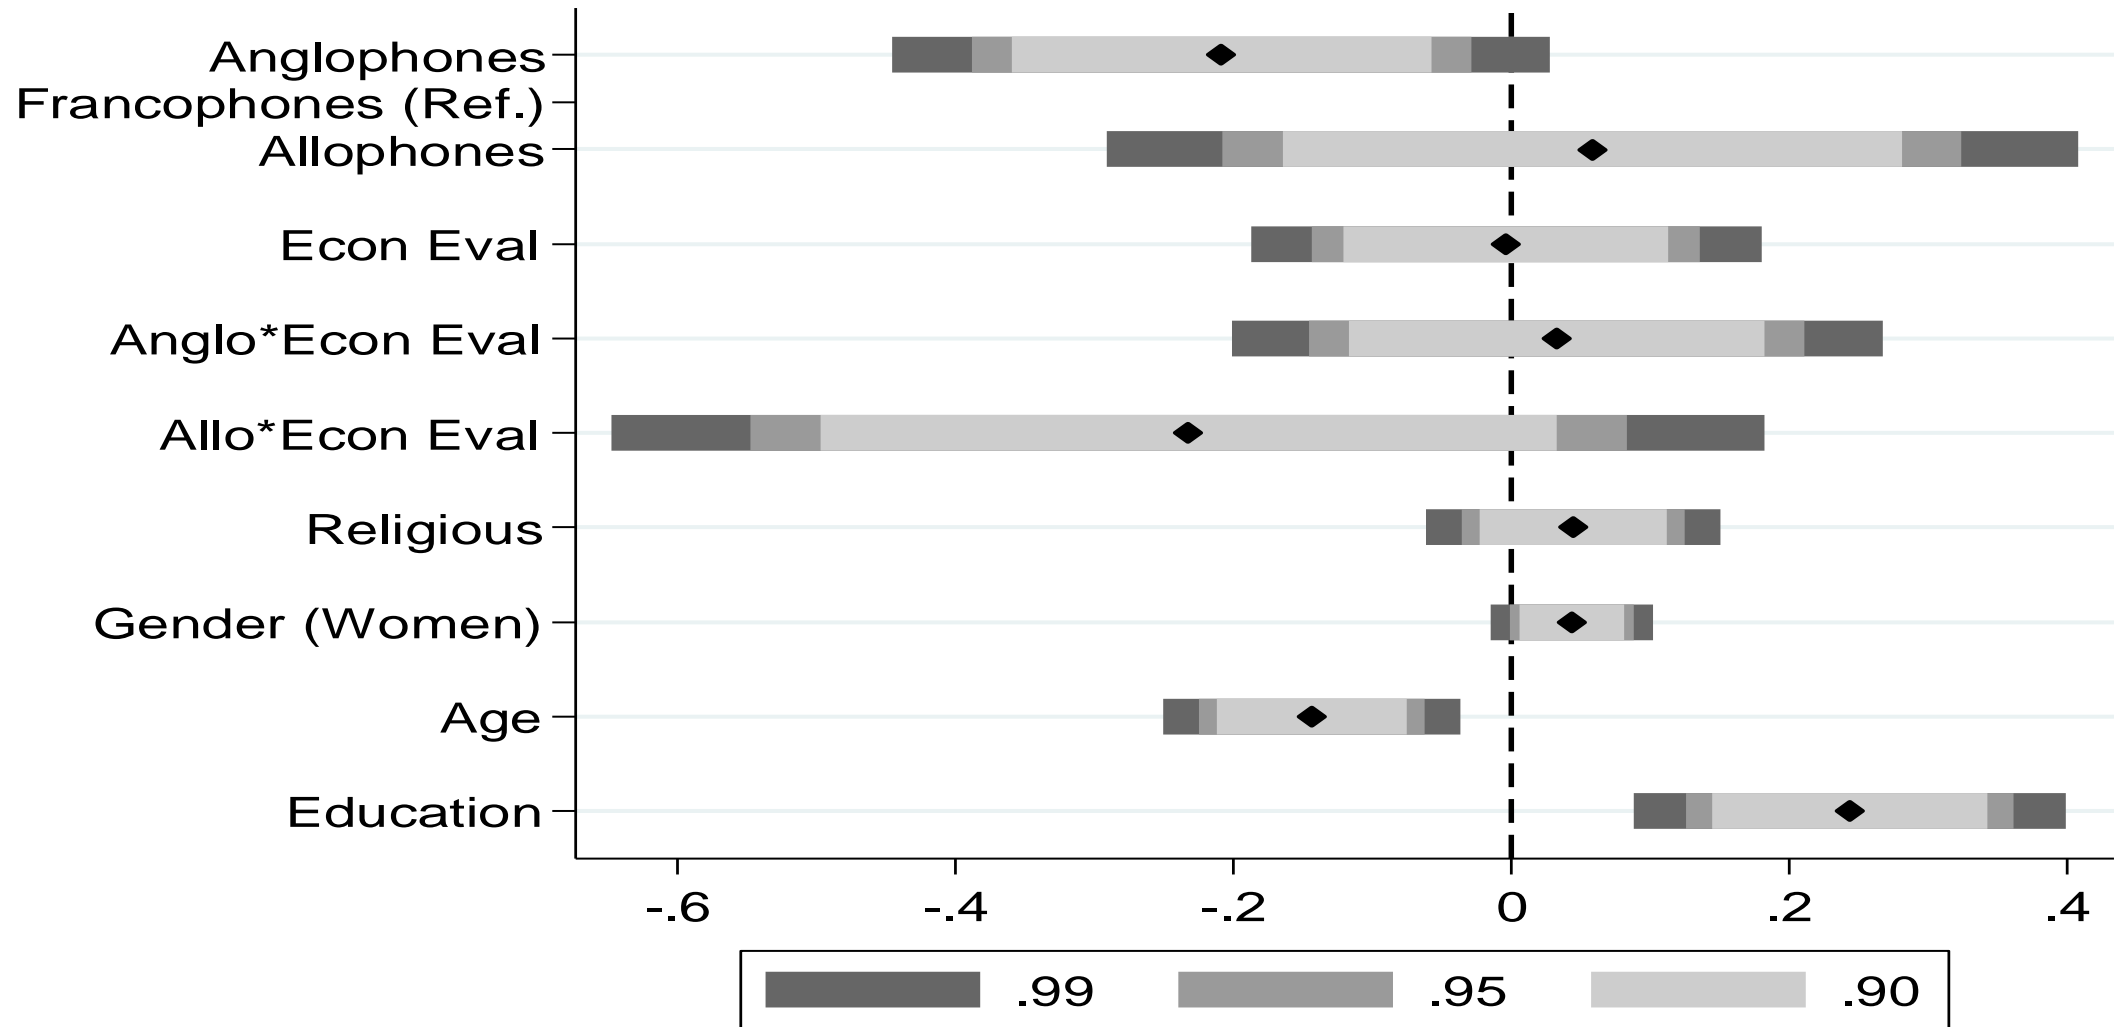

Findings of Interest

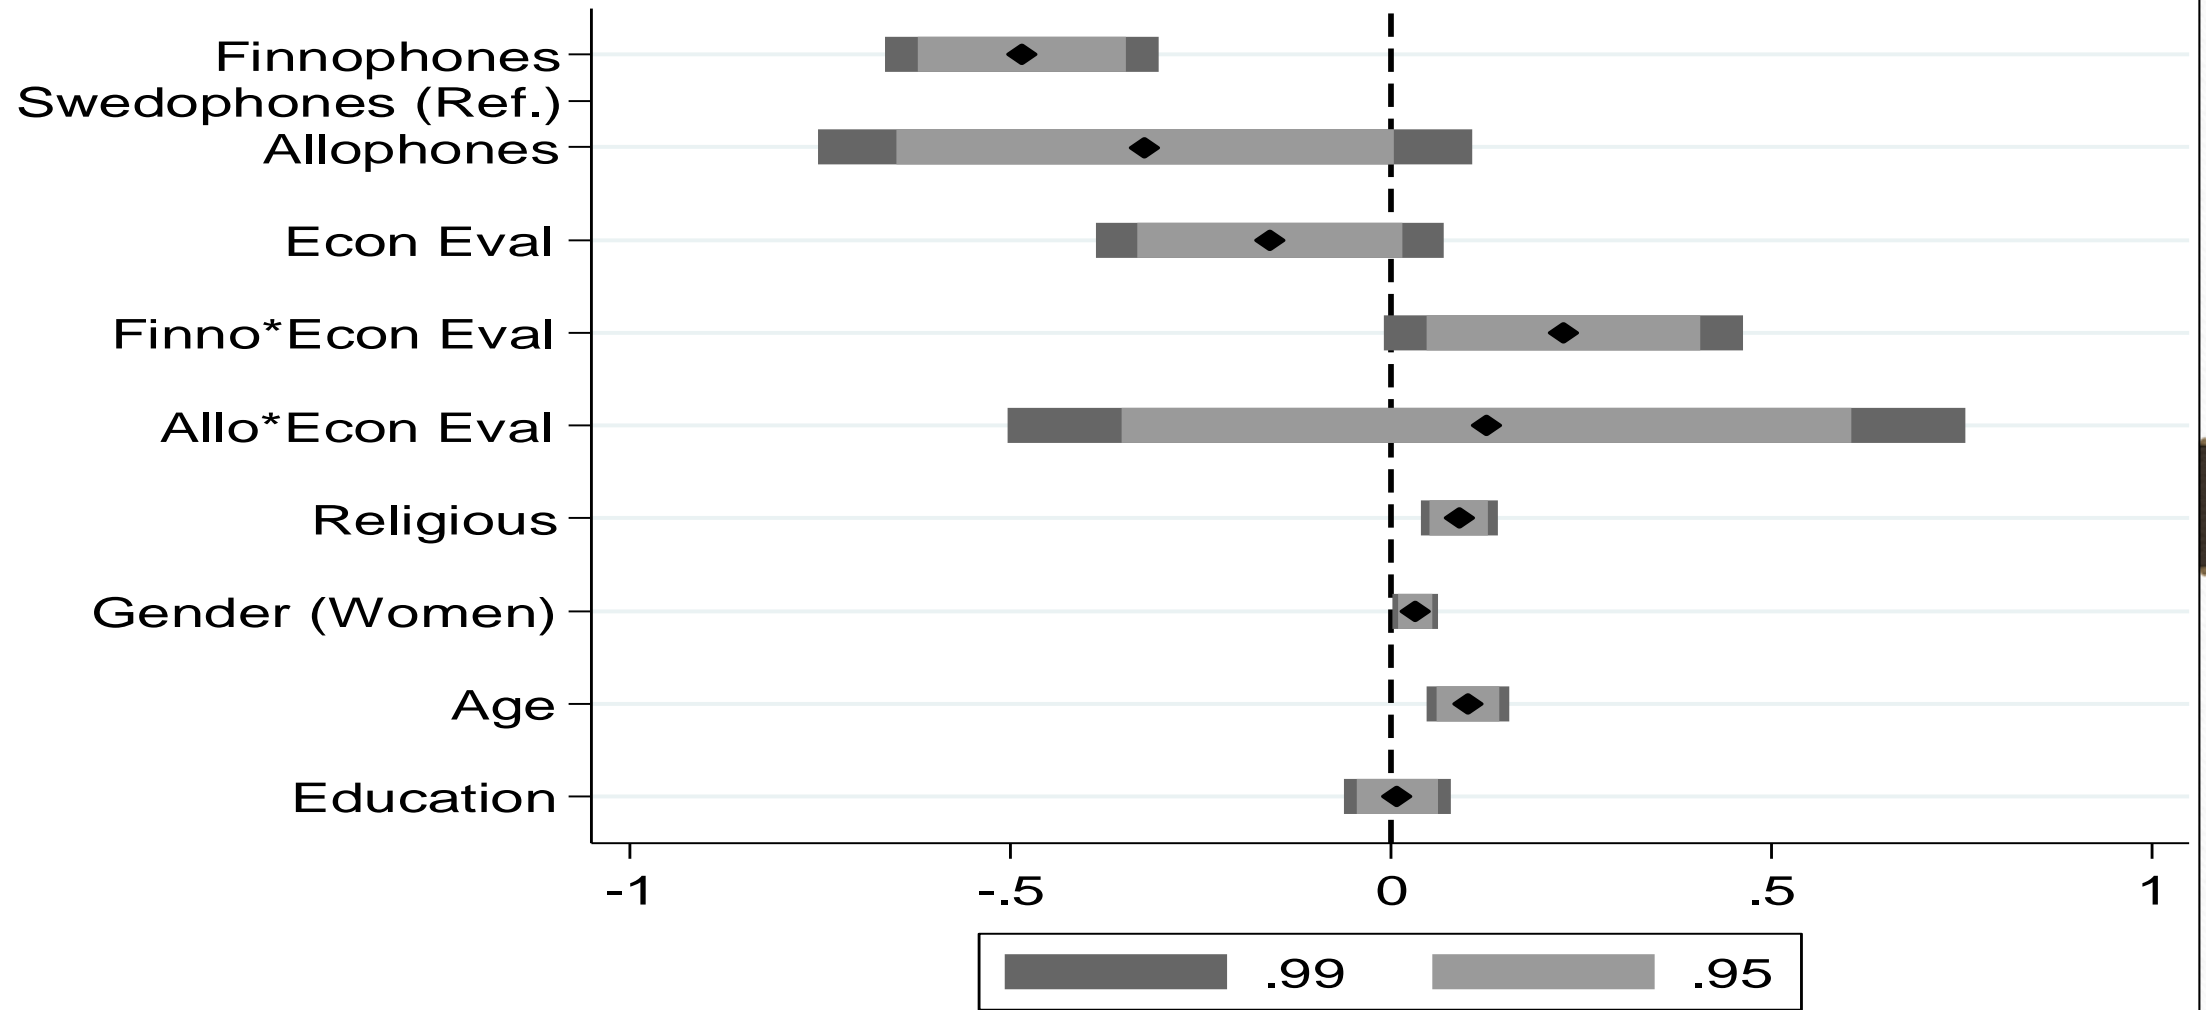

What factors determine support for bilingualism?

- Canada and Finland
- Lack of tensions \neq Greater support for bilingualism

Canada

Finland

Findings of Interest

What factors determine support for bilingualism?

- Canada and Finland
- Lack of tensions \neq Greater support for bilingualism
- Context matters
 - Factors of influence are not similar for both cases
 - Canada: Demographics
 - Finland: Economic threat and Religiosity

Potential areas in the intersection of language endangerment/political instability interesting to your research

- Linguistic vitality influences conflict intensity.
- Perceived linguistic threat among minorities influences support for secession and national attachment.
- Perceived cultural threat among a linguistic minority and a linguistic majority influences intergroup attitudes.

Thank you!
