What's Inside this Collection.

The Scholarly Works Collection is home to materials from the UNT community's research, creative, and scholarly activities. It serves as UNT's Open Access Repository. This collection brings together articles, papers, artwork, music, research data, reports, presentations, and other scholarly and creative products representing the expertise in our university community.

UNT Scholarly Works aims to:

- Provide easy access to valuable scholarly and creative materials from the UNT community
- Promote discovery through effective search and navigation tools
- Secure long-term access through stewardship and preservation
- Ensure sustainability through continuing system improvements
- Showcase UNT's research and creative achievements to a worldwide audience

These images document the disappearance of food and beverage items by photographing trays before and after schoolchildren ate lunch. The images were taken in North Texas during lunchtime in urban middle schools that participated in the National School Lunch and School Breakfast Programs.

About the Project

These photographs come from USDA-ERS Project #10.253, "Testing a Food Choice Innovation for Middle School Cafeterias," conducted from October 2010 to May 2011. Researchers were P. Connors, C. Bednar, B. Davenport, and L. Kennon.

Equipment and Procedure

Three Cannon PowerShot 1400 cameras with 8 GB memory cards were used. An apparatus forming a T-aerial was constructed using ½ inch PVC pipe with fittings and a GorillaGripper to suspend each camera at a height of two feet above a black FOAMCORE board cut to fit the top shelf of a food trolley. To position trays directly below the camera an 8x15

APIs for Documenting Plate Waste in Middle School Cafeterias Using Digital Still Photography

Introduction

The UNT Digital Library provides public access to number of application programming interfaces (APIs) to the collections within the system. Below are examples of APIs available for Documenting Plate Waste in Middle School Cafeterias Using Digital Still Photography that can be used openly by those interested in programatically accessing data from this system. You do not need to apply for a special key to use these APIs.

For additional information about these APIs or if you have general questions about machine interaction with the UNT Digital Library please contact Mark Phillips.

Note that all example URLs below use the same protocol and server name, <http://digital.library.unt.edu/explore/collections/DPWMSC/>. We only show the URL paths and parameters below to save space.

The API

OAI-PMH

The Open Archives Initiative's Protocol for Metadata Harvesting (OAI-PMH) allows programmatic access to this collection's metadata. Two metadata formats are currently supported, the standard oai_dc and the UNT Libraries native metadata format untl.

What's Inside this Collection.

The UNT Texas Fashion Collection is dedicated to the preservation and documentation of historically significant fashion, and serves as an educational and inspirational resource for students, researchers, and the general public. This vital resource is part of the UNT College of Visual Arts + Design.

About the Physical Collection

The collection of top designers' works began in 1938 through the efforts of Stanley and Edward Marcus. The Dallas Fashion Group saw that it came to UNT in 1972 to support a growing fashion design program. Today, the collection includes over 18,000 items. Between February and August of 2013, the entire collection was packed and moved to a new facility on the UNT Campus.

At this time, the Texas Fashion Collection is undergoing extensive inventory and documentation in preparation for providing online access to all objects that have been photographed.

About Joseph C. Britton, Jr.

Joseph C. Britton, Jr. was born on October 14, 1942 in Fort Worth, Texas. He earned a Bachelor's of Science and a Master's Degree in Biology from Texas Christian University (1963 and 1965 respectively). He earned a Ph.D. from George Washington University in 1970. His career began as the Assistant Director of Exhibits at the Smithsonian Institution National Museum of Natural History in Washington, D.C. where his early studies were of the marine bivalve family Lucinidae. Dr. Britton returned to his hometown of Fort Worth, Texas in the early 1970s and accepted a faculty position in the Biology Department at Texas Christian University. His research interests then transitioned to freshwater bivalves. He surveyed Texas waters for native mussels and studied the ecology and distribution of the invasive freshwater

Leveraging digital library infrastructure

Creating a sustainable program

The “how” becomes a known answer

Like digital stacks

Allowing us to focus on the content

And the connections people make with it.
