DIGITAL FRONTIERS THAT CAMP 2015

- 2015 Digital Frontiers conference hosted by the School of Arts and Humanities and the Emerging Media and Communication program at University of Texas at Dallas. The conference will be held in the UT-D University Union and the beautiful new Edith O'Donnell Arts and Technology Building at the center of the UT-D campus.
- September 17-19, 2015.
- Call for Proposals will be available after February 23rd.
- Visit digital-frontiers.org for more information.

- The Digital Frontiers THATCamp is back for a fourth year, an “unconference” that will bring together people from around the digital humanities. Open to graduate students, scholars, librarians, archivists, developers and programmers, administrators, and anyone with an interest in these fields. Participants work on projects, solve problems, and share ideas in a day-long learning laboratory.
- September 19, 2015.
- Visit digital-frontiers.org for more information.
