ogy would have it—that is, fantasy, wish fulfillment, and projection. Rather, as esoteric/transpersonal psychology would have it, there is only one great Mind, and what we experience as most deeply personal is actually universal. So in that sense, yes, it is all in the mind, but only because the deepest layers of the human mind are coterminous with the ultimate structure of the cosmos.

Therefore, the pursuit of the ideal society is a perennial project for humanity and will be until our evolution has brought us back to godhead—the same godhead that began the cosmic drama of our evolutionary unfoldment and that, paradoxically, we are/have been all along without recognizing it. Insofar as near-death experiences awaken us to our true identity, the acronym NDE could be said to stand for "Nearly Done with Evolution."

References

Kellehear, A. (1991). Near-death experiences and the pursuit of the ideal society. Journal of Near-Death Studies, 10, 79–95.

Osis, K., and Haraldsson, E. (1977). At the hour of death. New York, NY: Avon.

White, J. (1980). A practical guide to death and dying. Wheaton, IL: Theosophical Publishing House.

John W. White
60 Pound Ridge Road
Cheshire, CT 06410